Steady

HustleScore: $$$$

Steady is a job board for part-time, hourly and on-demand work that sorts job opportunities based on your location and skills. None of these jobs are unique to the platform. However, what makes Steady stand out is that it also offers "income boosters" that pass on incentive payments for trying a new product or a new gig to users.

Outside of paying the income boosters, the app doesn't pay you to work. Instead, it simply connects you to other companies offering work. The extremely positive feedback from Steady users points to a great overall experience.

The app is generally free to use. However, it does have a premium service option that promises to help you compare different jobs and see which are likely to pay the most. We're not sure that this $5 monthly service is worth the cost. But the free version is certainly worthwhile.

receive a booster for some minor fine print issue. That hasn't been the case
