Furthermore, within a session, loss-chasing can be expressed in the decision of (1) when to stop, (2) how much stake to bet, and (3) the speed of play after winning and losing.

The players were additionally assigned different involvement levels by the operator based on their gambling behavior on the operator's own platform, which further allowed us to examine group differences in loss-chasing.

Competing interests: I have read the journal's policy and the authors of this manuscript have the following competing interests: ZC, RD, and FV declare that no competing interests exist.

No honorarium was received.

Further understanding of whether and how gamblers chase losses (across the whole population) is e.

On the one hand, the loss may be seen as 'realized', as money is taken away from players' accounts.

On the other hand, the loss may still be 'unrealized', because the money
